THE San Francisco Chronicle has a story of how the U. S. cruiser Baltimore escaped being sunk by the Chinese at Port Arthur. This is part of the story; all we would add is that it is wonderful, if true:-At this instant, 5.45 p.m., the Chinese ferts opened fire on the torpedo boats with their heavy batteries. One shell struck the water and exploded within thirty feet of the boat we had been talking to not fifteen seconds before. We were in a regular trap, Orders were at once given to get up anchor and get under way. One of the torpedo boats at once left us and steamed daringly across a large patch of moonlit water, at the same time displaying red signals. This drew a volley from all of the forts, the shells striking the water all around the Baltimore and-THE Marionettes remain with us another exploding. The other torpedo boats hid striking close to the storn of the Baltimore. Another passed between our two smokestacks. A third passed over our starboard bow, very low and so close that several of us instinctively dodged. We had a little over sixty fathoms of chain out and our fires banked but were moving around slowly at 6.09 p.m., and a few minutes later were exciting and ticklish predicament, but every-Hall to night. This number, he says, is accounted number of proxies have been received, but for, and how many more ships have struck I wish to tell you that with the exception of two these proxies are invalid. Apparently, the gentlemen who sent in these proxies were not aware of the Ordinance lately passed—the Stamp Ordinance—which makes it imperative that every proxy shall state on it the meeting at which it is to be used and that it shall bear a two-cent stamp. The Board of Directors, on the other hand, holds proxies and votes for about 13,000 shares. A letter was sent in on Saturday, which informed morning at 3.30 a.m. She is intended to the Board that the opposition to the report was not directed against the body of Directors but was directed against me personally. Capt. Tillett-Don't you think it would facilitate business if you read the letter handed in by the shareholders-the letter that has been alluded to by Mr Orange?

The Chairman-I intend to do' so at the end of the meeting. It is a matter outside the absolute business of the meeting. I have said already I will resign, and I ask you now to pass or not the report. Committee on Supply. GLADSTONE'S JOKE ON THE CRITICS. New York, Dec. 23 -A cabled apecial to the Sun from London says : Mr Gladstone has played, unconsciously, a capital little joke upon his critice, literary and political. and is said to be enjoying it as much as anybody. Fifteen years ago he wrote, for a now defunct magazine, an article entitled 'The evangelical movement, its parentage, its progress and its issue. This was recently noticed by the editor of a present evangelical magazine, who, with the author's permission, republished it in this month's number. The critics, with one accord, treated the article as new, and praised or sneered according to their political beliefs, which is quite the common way of writing literary criticisms here. The Liberals, of course, found in the article proof that Gladstone's intellect had improved, like good wine. with age, and the Torics with equal certainty detected signs of mental decay. The Radicals, too, drow comfort from it as showing that the Grand Old Man, in his retirement, was more eager than ever to sever the connection between the state and church, while Whig churchmen discovered in this remarkable article abundant arguments in favor of the maintenance of union between the state and church. As a matter of fact the 'Grand Old Man' now writes little, although he is bombarded with applications from editors in all parts of the world. He is likely to write still less for the outside world if it be true as rumored that he has commenced dictating, his memoirs to his wife. The greater part of every day is still devoted to the reading of theological works from his already famous library, and collectors will learn with interest that he makes copious marginal notes upon every book which passes through his hands. The arrange-

London, December 23 -Some curious facts about London life are presented in the annual reports of the police and other departments to-day. The rate of growth is not so rapid as usual. There are only eighteen miles of new streets, against thirty-one the previous year. The city is being made more compact. Thirteen thoustreet transportation are slightly reduced. There are 10,800 cabs, which is 600 less than five years ago. The omnibuses and street cars number 3500.
